CHAPTER 1

GENERAL

1-1. Purpose. This regulation prescribes authorized abbreviations and brevity codes and procedures for their use within the Department of the Army including the Army National Guard and Army Reserve. It also prescribes the policy for use of abbreviations in communications to other services of the Department of Defense, between the United States, United Kingdom, Canadian and Australian armies, and lists national distinguishing letters authorized for use by NATO Armed Forces.

1-2. Policy. a. Abbreviations and brevity codes authorized by this regulation may be used in the preparation of military records, publications, correspondence, messages (AR 105-31), and in field work to include operation plans, orders, and reports within the Department of the Army including the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

b. Abbreviations and brevity codes that conflict with those authorized herein will not be used in general official correspondence or Army publications.

c. Abbreviations and brevity codes will be used only when the user is assured that the reader will understand them and when utilization saves time in writing or when lack of space in a table or form makes their use necessary or desirable.

d. Only those abbreviations specified in paragraph 1-3 will be used when communicating with other services of the Department of Defense.

e. Under the terms of STANAG No. 2066—Format for Military Correspondence, abbreviations normally will not be used in military correspondence covered by this agreement (see AR 340-10) if it is to be circulated between Allied Forces. If an abbreviation is used, the word or words abbreviated will be written in full on first appearance, followed by the appropriate abbreviation in parentheses. Abbreviations standing for combinations of words will be written in capital letters without spaces or punctuation: example, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE). The use of military abbreviations is not precluded in particular cases which may be authorized from time to time, nor the use of abbreviations which are in common international use; for example, mm ft, kg, lb.

f. Under the terms of SOLOG 20, abbreviations printed in italics in chapters 2 and 3 and those listed in section II, chapter 5 are authorized for use in all types of military communications between the United States, United Kingdom, Canadian, and Australian armies. In addition, abbreviations commonly used in technical channels may be used between similar offices, and commonly accepted international abbreviations.

g. Under the following conditions, abbreviations and brevity codes not specifically authorized herein may also be used within the Department of the Army including the Army National Guard and Army Reserve.

(1) When necessary to meet electric accounting machine requirements.

(2) When published as part of a Department of Defense or Department of the Army standard data element. Questions as to the suitability of abbreviations in the standard data elements will be resolved by OAVCSA pending formal guidance on this subject from Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Comptroller).

(3) On forms in which the space allotted does not permit the spelling out of words.

(4) On informal memorandums within an office. Abbreviations commonly understood in an office are permissible for correspondence of this type, but care will be exercised that no abbreviations or brevity codes other than those authorized in this regulation are used in general official correspondence.

(5) In correspondence between offices and activities dealing in the same scientific or technical field for which a system of abbreviations has been developed in their specialized field.

(6) In processing requisitions for supplies, which may involve symbols used in shipment orders, as prescribed in Department of the Army directives.

(7) When they are office symbols which have been assigned to offices, divisions, branches, sections, or other similar organizational elements of the Department of the Army to identify correspondence pertaining to that office.

(8) When the abbreviations are commonly used and prescribed in standard dictionaries, provided they are not in conflict with this regulation, universally accepted abbreviations of names of States, territories, foreign countries (except as provided in sec I, chap. 5), provinces, and units of measurement.

(9) In the dissemination of news and public information, personnel engaged in informational activities may use any abbreviations which are meaningful and acceptable to the internal and external publics.

(10) Except as specified in Department of Defense standard data elements, abbreviations in dates and hours will be used as follows:

(a) Dates. Dates are written with the day preceding the name of the month; for example, 15 Jan. Days of the week and months are abbreviated by using the first three letters of the word. In stating a night, both dates are included; for example, Night 7-8 Apr.

(b) Hours. Time is indicated according to the 24-hour clock system in four digits, the first two digits representing the hour and the last two digits the minutes. The day and hour are expressed in a group of six digits, the first two indicating the day of the month and the last four the time in hours and minutes; for example, 251600 Apr. When the day, hour, or minute can be expressed by a single digit, they are preceded by a zero so that the complete day and hour number always contains six digits; for example, 020630 May. The month and the year, if necessary, follow the six-digit group; for example, 101330 Jun 69.

(c) Time zone designator. A letter suffix is used after the time group to indicate the zone of the time being expressed. The letter suffix "Z" immediately following the last digit of the group indicates Greenwich civil time; for example, 210830Z indicates 8:30 a.m. on the 21st day of the current month. For further details see AR 105-31 or FM 101-10-1.

1-3. Joint use among United States Armed Forces. The following listing of points of policy constitutes an Army, Navy, Air Force Agreement regarding the joint usage of abbreviations.

a. Abbreviations authorized for use within a Service will not be used on a Joint or Inter-Service basis, unless they fall within one or more of the categories defined in c below, or are used as prescribed in b below.

b. Abbreviations other than those outlined in c below may be used in the text of correspondence or messages after they have been initially spelled out and identified therein.

c. When any Service addresses another Service, either for ACTION or INFORMATION, only abbreviations which definitely fall within the following categories may be used:

(1) Customary or assigned short titles of official publications.

(2) Abbreviations for medals, badges, or other marks of distinction.

(3) Abbreviations for points of the compass.

(4) Authorized model designations and symbols for types of aircraft, vessels, or vehicles.

(5) Abbreviations for titles, ranks, and grades.

(6) Abbreviations commonly used for geographical locations and standard English dictionary abbreviations.

(7) Abbreviations for various weather phenomena commonly used by aerologists and meteorologists.

(8) Flight plan abbreviations authorized by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) or the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) for use in aircraft movement reports.

(9) Other technical abbreviations customarily used by specialists and technicians when in communication with persons in the same field as that of the originator, and with no others.

1-4. References containing authorized abbreviations. In addition to the abbreviations contained in chapters 2, 3, and 4, abbreviations contained in the following publications are authorized for Army use:

a. FM 21-30. Abbreviations authorized in the field for the construction of military symbols used in connection with operational plans and orders, including reports, records, overlays, and charts.

b. FM 21-31. Abbreviations authorized in the field for use in the construction of topographic symbols used in connection with military maps, overlays, and related activities.

c. MIL-STD-12C. Standard abbreviations for use on drawings.

d. MIL-STD-129F. Marking for shipment and storage.

e. SB 708-6C (Federal Manual for Supply Cataloging). Abbreviations and symbols approved for use in preparing certain types of Federal Catalog System item identifications, and where necessary, in listing Federal Catalog data in supply manuals and parts lists appendixes to technical manuals.

f. AR 105-22. Authorized Addresses for Electrically Transmitted Messages.

1-5. General instruction on originating and in use of abbreviations and brevity codes. To obtain uniform treatment in originating and using abbreviations and brevity codes, the following criteria will be observed:

a. Length.

(1) It is not desirable to abbreviate words or phrases which comprise less than seven letters.

(2) An abbreviation or brevity code should be limited in length to avoid becoming more unwieldy and confusing than the full spelling.

b. Existing words, abbreviations, and brevity codes.

(1) Abbreviations or brevity codes which form existing words are not desirable and will be avoided.

(2) Abbreviations and brevity codes identical with those authorized for other terms and sentences will be avoided. They will not be authorized unless the meanings are so far discrepant that there is no possibility of conflict of interpretation.

c. Derivation. In general, nouns are listed only in the singular form and verbs in the present tense. The abbreviations or brevity codes, without being changed, may be used to signify any of the various derivatives of the root word (al, ally, ance, ed, er, ian, ies, ility, ing, ive, ly, ment, n, r, s, ze, etc.) provided that the meaning will be clear.

d. Combinations. Authorized abbreviations may be combined to form an organizational abbreviation or brevity code, provided the resulting abbreviation or brevity code has not been assigned a different meaning or the entire phrase or sentence has not been assigned a different abbreviation or brevity code; for example, AGC is the authorized abbreviation for Adjutant General's Corps; AjdGenCorps is not authorized. Prescribed abbreviations and brevity codes for groups of words must be used as such and will not be broken for use singly; for example, A in AGC stands for adjutant, but adj is the abbreviation for the word adjutant standing alone.

e. Periods. Do not use a period after an abbreviation or brevity code unless it ends a sentence, or might otherwise cause confusion.

f. Asterisks. Abbreviations and brevity codes marked with an asterisk are listed herein for use solely in combinations in correspondence and documents. Abbreviations and brevity codes so marked will not be used in electrically transmitted messages.

g. Capitalization. Generally, abbreviations are listed in lower case and brevity codes are listed in full capitals.

h. Acronyms.

(1) Explanation of term. A word formed from the initials or syllables of a word group;

for example SCUBA for self-contained underwater breathing apparatus.

(2) Use. Acronyms may be used only when they fall into one of the categories of authorized brevity codes or short titles.

i. Brevity codes.

(1) Explanation of term. An abbreviation for an unclassified phrase, sentence, or group of sentences frequently employed (not to be confused with code words, nicknames, short titles and similar devices as prescribed by AR 380-105).

(2) Originating. When originating brevity codes, letters should be used which tend to convey the meaning of the phraseology which they represent. They should be consistent with brevity codes authorized for terms in the same subject area. Multiple ways in which the same word is represented in brevity codes is undesirable. As far as is practicable, the first letter of the brevity code and the first letter of the phrase should be the same.

j. Scope. Abbreviations and brevity codes recommended will be of general interest to the Department of the Army as a whole, will not be technical or used solely within a single branch or arm, and will not pertain or be peculiar solely to a given technical activity.

1-6. Responsibility. a. Heads of Department of the Army agencies and major commanders in the continental United States and overseas, commanding generals of CONUS armies and the MDW, are responsible for advising HQDA (DAAG-AMP), Washington, DC 20314, of all changes, corrections, additions, and deletions.

b. Proposed changes should be accompanied by reasons and justification for the action proposed.

c. Proposed additions should be accompanied by background material to include—

(1) A reference as to where the term is used.

(2) An explanation of the term if it is not defined in AR 310-25.

(3) The extent of usage within the Department of the Army.

(4) Justification for approval as an exception to policy if the abbreviation or brevity code does not meet the criteria set forth in paragraph 1-5.

CHAPTER 2

ALPHABETICAL LISTING OF GENERAL AND ORGANIZATIONAL ABBREVIATIONS AND BREVIETY CODES

Note. The dagger (†) preceding the entry, indicates abbreviations and brevity codes not previously listed. The double dagger (‡) preceding the entry, indicates changes to previously listed abbreviations and brevity codes.

OTHER ABBREVIATIONS

Section I. NATIONAL DISTINGUISHING LETTERS FOR USE BY NATO ARMED FORCES

Under the terms of STANAG No. 1059—National Distinguishing Letters for Use by NATO Armed Forces, the following National Distinguishing Letters will be used whenever it is necessary to use abbreviations in staff work and communications, including publications, documents, communications, orders, or other media, to identify a NATO Nation^{1 2} or any part of NATO Armed Forces.^{3 4}

Belgium	BE	Luxembourg	LU
Canada ⁵	CA	Netherlands	NL
Denmark	DA	Norway	NO
France	FR	Portugal	PO
Federal Republic of Germany .	GE	Turkey	TU
Greece	GR	United Kindgom ⁶	UK
Iceland	IC	United States	US
Italy	IT

¹ The Distinguishing Letters listed above are to be used to denote the countries concerned in all documents or papers, irrespective of whether they are in the English or French language.

² Whenever the NATO Nations are listed in any paper or document, they are to be listed in the order shown above in both English and French versions.

⁴ National Distinguishing Letters for components of Army Forces smaller than a division are to be used only when it is necessary to avoid confusion.

⁶ The letters "UK" denote the United Kingdom, or a force or part of a force provided solely from the United Kingdom. The letters "BR" may, however, be used in special cases to denote a force comprising units or elements of more than one country of the British Commonwealth.

Section II. SOLOG ABBREVIATIONS

The abbreviations contained herein, and the abbreviations which are printed in italics in chapters 2 and 3, comprise the abbreviations authorized for use between the United States, United Kingdom, Canadian, and Australian armies and listed in SOLOG Agreement 20, Military Abbreviations, as amended. The following terms and abbreviations are no longer authorized for use within the Department of the Army:

AA	antiaircraft.
BW	biological warfare.
CW	chemical warfare.
encl	enclosure.
JAAOC	Joint Antiaircraft Operations Center.
LAA	light antiaircraft.
