

Part 1 of ISLAM Versus CIVILIZATION

by Kurt Saxon

Shortly after 9/11 President George Bush said on CNN, "Islam is a beautiful and peaceful religion". George is a very trusting man. I'm sure no one believes he knows anything about Islam that he wasn't told by some lying mullah invited to the White House.

George's object, and that of CNN, seems to be to convince the American public that there is no connection between Islam and terrorism. But how many Baptists were among the 19 Highjackers of 9/11? How many Catholics have blown themselves up in Israel? How many Methodists or Presbyterians broadcasting through al-Jazeera, threatens to destroy America? Was the failed shoe-bomber a Jehovah's Witness?

Islam, the belief system represented by the non-existent Allah was and is behind all the terrorism that has counted in the last few years. America is harboring about 18 million Muslims, all of whom profess loyalty. Bill Maher, of "Politically Incorrect", told Larry King that 99% of U.S. Muslims were loyal. That stupid exaggeration cost me all the respect for Maher, whom I now suspect is just as much controlled as those he accuses of being controlled. But as to loyalty, can a Muslim be loyal to the United States? CNN interviewed a young U.S. Muslim who was asked how strong was his loyalty to the U.S. Constitution. He answered that he would be loyal to our Constitution as long as it didn't conflict with the Koran, and then he'd stick with the Koran. Imagine a young Nazi in Israel saying he'd go along with the Israeli constitution as long as it didn't conflict with Mein Kampf and if it did, he'd stick with Mein Kampf.

But the Koran couldn't be more in conflict with our Constitution. The Koran says, "And it is not for a believer, man or woman, to have any choice in their affairs when God, (Allah) and his apostle have decreed a matter: and whosoever disobeyeth God and his apostle, erreth with palpable error". Could anyone submit to such tyranny and still be loyal to the U.S. Constitution? We can't put up with such divided loyalties in these times. This does not apply to the Amish, and other offshoots of our typical belief systems who refuse to salute the flag, refuse social security, etc. They are no threat. But the threat from believers in Allah has been made all too clear. I don't consider any Muslim to be an American, even those born here. Allah is not a being, but an alien idea, hostile to everything our country stands for. Muslims have proven themselves to be a danger, constant references to threats by Muslims living among us should cause every loyal American to reject anyone who accepts the teachings of Allah.

Another difference I have with Maher is because of a remark which got him a lot of flack. He said suicide bombers and other life-sacrificing terrorists were not cowards; that anyone who would give his life for his beliefs was not committing an act of cowardice.

One who risks or gives his life in war for his comrades or to accomplish a certain benefit for his cause is a hero. But to go among unsuspecting civilians and blow them to bits is indeed an act of cowardice. The motive, as in the case of suicide bombers must be taken into account. CNN interviews with caught would-be suicides proves that many of them were not necessarily committed to die for a cause. My article, "Sex And The Male Muslim" shows that their main motive was an insane hope to awaken in Paradise and embark on an eternal sexual orgy as a reward for heroes.

Most Americans are inclined to consider Muslim terrorists as religious fanatics. But is Islam a religion in the first place?

The common idea of a religion is a belief system with a deity which inspires and cares for the needs of its believers. It also promises a better afterlife for believers whose earthly lives were filled with faith and good works.

These are the basic attributes a being must have to qualify as a god. But how does Allah stack up as a god? Consider; ever since the sixth century con-man and fraud, Muhammad, gathered a flock of ignorant Arab sheep to shear and then left an oppressive belief system to his crooked relatives, Islam has been at the throat of the rest of humanity. Among themselves, it has always been family against family, faction against faction, tribe against tribe, Islamic nation against Islamic nation and every Islamic nation against their non-Islamic neighbors.

Anyone who has read George Orwell's "1984" can see Islam as INGSOC and the mullahs as the thought police. Islam is a system which is set up for power, profit and control, with the emphasis on control, with no advantage whatever to the believer.

An example of the control is the willingness to die for Allah of literally millions of Muslims. The pitiful thing about this is that their willingness is to no purpose. Allah's troops are conditioned to believe that their faith alone will give them victory over the greatest technological power in history. Saddam Husein promised the "Mother of All Battles". In the Gulf War Allah's troops went into battle against the U.S. armed mainly with superstition and weapons they didn't know how to use. Our side lost less than 300, mainly due to a missile which hit a barracks. Allah's casualties were over a hundred thousand. One stretch of highway over a mile long had thousands of Allah's troops strewn body-to-body. The survivors, who had vowed to die for Allah, rather than suffer defeat, were surrendering in droves to reporters.

Osama Bin Laden boasted over Al-Jazeera that Allah's troops would destroy the forces of the Great Satan. His dupes had gone on and on about how they were willing, even anxious, to die for Allah. But when the battle was joined they were slaughtered like rats in a basement and, thinking better of dying for Allah, either surrendered or ran like rabbits.

Below is a description of the battle of Iwo Jima from "American Military History".

IWO JIMA, BATTLE OF (1945) When the Joint Chiefs of Staff directed the Pacific Fleet commander, Adm. Chester *Nimitz, to occupy an island in the Bonin volcano group during the western Pacific campaign in World War II, the only island of significance was Iwo Jima. Early in 1945, Japanese fighter aircraft from there were harassing the B-29s, which had begun their raids from the Marianas against Japan. Also, an emergency recovery airfield was needed for B-29s returning damaged or short on fuel.

Mt. Suribachi, at 556 feet, is the most prominent landmark of the seven-mile long, pork chop-shaped island, where Lt. Gen. Tadamichi Kuribayashi had 21,000 men and 1,000 guns. Forsaking the Japan doctrine of defending at the water's edge, he decided instead to defend from an elaborate system of caves and tunnels.

On (the American side, Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner commanded the Joint Expeditionary Force with Lt. Gen. Holland M. Smith as commander of the Joint Expeditionary Troops, while Maj. Gen. Harry Schmidt commanded the Marine V Amphibious Corps, consisting of the 3rd (Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine), 4th (Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Gates), and 5th (Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey) Marine Divisions. At 0930 on 19 February 1945, the first wave of armored amphibian tractors touched down, 5th Division on the left and 4th Division on the right. On the left, the 28th Marines, an infantry regiment, turned south toward Suribachi, and after four days of fighting gained the top of the mountain. A patrol reached the crest and tied a small American flag to a piece of pipe. Three hours later, a larger flag was brought up—one that could be seen from all over the island. Joe Rosenthal, an Associated Press photographer, took a picture of its raising that was published around the world.

The main effort was a slow advance to the north, with the 5th Division on the left and the 4th Division on the right. The 3rd Division was fed into the center of the line and the attack shouldered forward. After days of heavy fighting, the island was secured on 26 March. Altogether, 71,243 Marines had been put ashore; of these, 5,931 were killed in action, and 17,372 wounded. Twenty-two Marines, four navy hospital corpsmen, and one navy "landing craft commander were awarded the Medal of Honor, half of them posthumous awards. The number of Japanese killed has never been determined exactly, but only 216 prisoners were taken, most of them Korean conscript laborers. The terrible cost to Americans was somewhat balanced by another statistic: by war's end, 2,251 heavy bombers, with crews totaling 24,761, had made emergency landings on Iwo.

There were 21,000 Japanese troops on Iwo Jima, all pledged to die for their emperor god. They were dug into caves in Mount Suribachi, much like Tora Bora. From these caves they killed 5,931 American Marines and wounded 17,372, as opposed to only one combat death in Afghanistan, so far. When the island was taken, there were only 216 prisoners taken, most of whom were Korean conscript laborers.

Throughout the battle the Japanese endured a fierce bombardment from offshore batteries, plus thousands of sorties from carrier-based fighter bombers.

Compared to the Japanese, Allah's troops are just a lot of effeminate cowards. And of course, General Kuribayashi, true to his soldier's code, died with his troops, unlike Bin Laden, who abandoned Allah's troops and ran. He may be in Pakistan now, boasting to his cronies what Allah and he are going to do to the Great Satan.

Muslims have never been good at soldiering. Their many wars with Israel have proven them to be incompetent. This is mainly due to their belief that they were backed up by Allah, a being which never existed and was only the fantasy of ignorant primitives.

Even during the Middle Ages, Islam as a military force was a joke. Richard Suskind's "The Crusades", reprinted on our CD Vol. 1, issue 1 (and at this website), shows that the only thing that saved Islam then was the ignorance and disorganization of the Crusader armies.

From "THE CRUSADES" by Richard Suskind

It was difficult, if not impossible, to guard against the Assassins. They could easily slip into any Moslem court or camp, wait for the right moment, then strike quickly with knife or poison. Hundreds of caliphs, sultans, emirs, and other officials were killed by them. When the Grand Master of the sect the most famous of them, Sheik Sinan, was known by the Christians as the Old Man of the Mountains, wanted a murder committed he would summon one of the fedais (devoted ones) into his private gardens, prime him with hashish, and give him his choice of beautiful women and handsome boys. After a night or two of debauchery —a foretaste of paradise, so to speak—the Assassin would leave on his mission prepared to kill or die; and since he was assured of going to heaven, it made little difference to him if he was killed in the performance of his duty. The Assassins were completely indifferent to death.

On one occasion, for example, a Christian emissary arrived in Alamut to discuss a treaty with Sinan. After dinner, over copper mugs of thick black Turkish coffee, the talk came around to loyalty and devotion. The emissary said that the Templars and Hospitalers were the most devoted of the knights and would do anything rather than betray their Order. Sheik. Sinan smiled contemptuously. "You Nazarenes know nothing of devotion. I'll show you the meaning of true devotion." The courtyard was surrounded by a ring of high towers, a fedais standing on the top of each one. Sinan raised his hand and beckoned, and one after the other the fedais dove from the towers and dashed their brains out on the tiles of the courtyard. "That," said Sinan, "is devotion! Shall I go on with the demonstration?" "Please," the shaken emissary begged. "No more!"

When Conrad learned of the council's decision, he fell to his knees and cried out in a loud voice, "Oh God, hear me! If I am unworthy of the crown, then give it to another!" A few days later, as he was returning home from a visit to a friend's house, he was stopped in the street by two men. One of them handed him a letter, and while he was reading it, the other plunged a knife repeatedly into his belly and side. He was carried to his palace, where he died a few minutes later. One of the killers was hacked to bits on the spot; the other was taken alive, tortured, and confessed that he had been sent to do the job by the Old Man of the Mountains because Conrad, a couple of months before, had captured a vessel loaded with goods for the Assassins and had refused to return it.

The Muslims had to outnumber the Crusaders at least 10 to one to be effective. One Crusader knight could hack down 30 Muslims without working up a sweat.

Today's Muslims are even worse. The Muslim performance in Afghanistan will go down as one of the most disgraceful in military history.

Now to the "Great Satan". The Koran refers to "Sundry Satans". I don't know where they got the term, "Satan". The Biblical Satan is one being, not sundry. Perhaps the term has become universal for an evil being. Maybe that's what Muslims call "djinnns", devils invented in ancient Arabia to explain why Allah couldn't deliver on his promises, in which case, satans or djinnns must be as numerous as Muslims.

CNN has often had spokespersons saying that the whole Muslim world hates America in general and Israel in particular. I don't believe they really hate either us or the Israelis. Our systems are too vast and complex for their primitive minds to grasp.

Islam, with its billion believers is the great underclass of our planet. Every Islamic nation is a tyranny. Except in the oil-rich nations, most other Islamic nations are vastly over-populated, with ragged, hungry, uneducated, backward people. It is more accurate to see their attitude toward us as the tent and the mud hut versus the skyscraper.

Every Muslim, even the most isolated, has seen magazines, an occasional movie and some TV. They know enough of the civilized world to realize that people of the Great Satan have everything while they are among the most wretched. Of course, the mullahs want it that way. The more impoverished and ignorant they are, the easier it is for the mullahs to control them; the control being more in mind control than anything else. The mullahs preach an ideal, simple sixth century system which even the dumbest of them would understand, would not have to think and would not need a choice in their own affairs and would be as happy as children all their lives. Of course, they are too ignorant to know that the sixth century agriculture and technology of their dreams could not feed a hundredth of their population.

Their mullahs know this and yet lead these pitiful incompetents to believe the system would work, anyway, and they would be successful if what Allah would provide had not been taken over by us infidels and our Great Satan.

Since this wretched underclass has no chance of ever rising above the tent and mud hut, their fantasies of their own skyscrapers are only an idiotic dream. Therefore, they are bent on destroying our skyscrapers. To best understand their thought processes read Lothrop Stoddard's "The Revolt Against Civilization", 1922. It is an interesting read and will help you to better understand the real threat of Islam.

People who think like this are so programmed to believe that infidels are their enemies that they can't be trusted, no matter how friendly they act or what credentials they hold. A case in point is that Muslim Secret Service agent, possibly a mole, who worked his way near to the president.

Since he was an alien with a gun and a possibly false I.D. and made mistakes on the paperwork, the pilot was right in keeping him off that flight. People who fly should be grateful for that kind of pilot. Even so, since George said the pilot's caution made him "mad as heck", we can expect it will be a lot easier for terrorists to get aboard planes unless the pilots are willing to profile, regardless of the flack from ninies from the president on down.

This incident gave me an interesting fantasy. Say that Muslim agent did get on that plane and got to George. He pulls his gun and shoots George in the face, killing him. Naturally, he would have the presence of mind to drop the gun and throw up his hands.

He would be taken into custody and treated well, all his "rights" being observed. He would be provided with the best Arab-American defense attorneys, at taxpayer's expense. The jury would be packed with Muslims, for fear of profiling. He would automatically become the greatest hero among the world's Muslims, greater even than Bin Laden. His defense attorneys would explain to a sympathetic jury that since George was the Great Satan's chief representative on Earth, the killer was simply practicing his religion in a heroic act for Allah and all Islam.

Would you trust any Muslim near your president? I wouldn't. But George obviously would. Well, lots of luck, George.

For the past several weeks, CNN has been promoting the English translation of the Koran, published by Everyman and Tuttle in North Clarendon, VT. I've reproduced the first page and the first page of the Index showing that the name "Allah" does not appear in the book; only "God". No Muslim says "God", since that is the term the infidels use for their deity. As the Hindus call their deity "Brahma" and the Israelis call theirs "Adonai", so the Muslims call theirs only "Allah". I think this is to make infidels believe, somehow, that theirs is the same deity as the one we grew up with, only by a different term. My own wife believed "Allah" was just another name for her Baptist God until I showed her otherwise by reading the excerpt from the 1892 edition of the Encyclopedia Brittanica which described Allah as having a wife and daughters. There is no similarity between Allah and the deity described in the Bible. Muslims also say "there is no god but Allah", meaning yours doesn't exist and is to be replaced by Allah, even if it means killing you, which is the long-range plan of all Islam.

Another purpose for the English translation seems to be to prove to an infidel that Islam is non-threatening. The book is stupid but is indeed non-threatening. Page after page is filled with love, kindness, forgiveness, blessing, compassion, etc. Allah is presented to us as a regular "Goody-two-shoes" We are to read it and note all this sweetness and light and believe it is a beautiful and peaceful religion. So where in this book do Muslims worldwide get their hatred and violence toward us and all other non-Muslims?

Any Muslim scholar will tell you that one can't get the true meaning of Islam unless he can read the Koran in its original Arabic. Since Arabs have been ignorant, primitive and brutal savages for thousands of years, I would expect anything written in the original Arabic to be ignorant and primitive. Obviously the translators edited out all the hateful parts to convince us that Islam is a benign belief system. But CNN has shown us all too clearly that everything about the original Islam is hostile to us.

I want you to examine the first page of the English Koran. "In the name of God (Allah), the compassionate, the merciful". Since when? How has this being, or the belief in it ever led to compassion and mercy?

SURA¹ I

MECCA – 7 VERSES

In the Name of God, the Compassionate, the Merciful²

Praise be to God, Lord of the worlds!
 The compassionate, the merciful!
 King on the day of reckoning!
 Thee only do we worship, and to Thee do we cry for help.
 Guide Thou us on the straight path,
 The path of those to whom Thou hast been gracious; – with whom thou art not angry, and who go not astray.

SURA 2 – THE COW¹

MEDINA – 286 VERSES

In the Name of God, the Compassionate, the Merciful

Elif. Lam. Mim.² No doubt is there about this Book: It is a guidance to the God-fearing,

Who believe in the unseen,³ who observe prayer, and out of what we have bestowed on them, expend for God;

And who believe in what hath been sent down to thee, and in what hath been sent down before thee, and full faith have they
 in the life to come:

These are guided by their Lord; and with these it shall be well.

As to the infidels, alike is it to them whether thou warn them or warn them not – they will not believe:

Their hearts and their ears hath God sealed up; and over their eyes is a covering. For them, a severe chastisement!

And some⁴ there are who say, 'We believe in God, and in the latter day:' Yet are they not believers!

Fain would they deceive God and those who have believed;
 but they deceive themselves only, and know it not.
