

Part 2 of ISLAM Versus CIVILIZATION

Afghanistan has had a devastating drought for over three years. This has been the excuse Afghans have given for not being able to feed their starving people. Millions of Afghan mothers have prayed to Allah to send rain while their children starved to death. But the "compassionate and merciful" Allah still sent no rain. But the compassionate and merciful "Great Satan", from January to 9/11, 2001 sent 148 million in food and medical aid and more than three times that much since. So what kind of a god is Allah to withhold rain while depending on the Great Satan to send food? All these suffering children are indeed Allah's. Without Islam's restrictions against any sort of birth control, there would be fewer children to die of neglect and starvation.

We've all seen TV coverage of Somalia, with the 300,000 little skeletons, starving while well-fed grown men strutted around with their guns, uncaring about the children they could have fed with looted food stores and money from Osama Bin Laden and fellow Muslim nations.

The same goes for Al Qaeda and the Taliban ignoring the starving Afghan children. The idea that Allah and those he influences are compassionate and merciful is so absurd that anyone who thinks Allah is a god starts out being stupid and goes on to be insane. Yet we have millions of these Muslims among us. Instead of being sent to the Middle East where they belong, even more are getting in. Daily, CNN tells us that they are among us and lying in wait to strike. Don Rumsfeld said there are over 100 known Al-Qaeda cells operating here while CNN guests complain that the thousands of Arabs here illegally and held in custody are being deprived of their rights.

A minor aggravation has been exposed by CNN that Al-Qaeda and Taliban prisoners have been given copies of the Koran. Did the Americans guarding the Nazi war prisoners give them each a copy of Mein Kampf? This show of concern for the enemy is a disgrace.

Of course, we've gotten over the main attack and are waiting for the sleepers to strike. I don't put much stock in such threats since these people are too stupid to be as effective as on 9/11. It could happen that some fool might strap on some bombs and go to a MacDonald's. All that would happen then would be that about 15 National Guardsmen would be stationed at each MacDonald's and everyone would go to Wendy's.

Although the first page of the 500 pages of drivel, the Koran, should prove to anyone that Islam is a fraud, their after-life promises are so ridiculous as to make one wonder how anyone not really insane could hope for sex in the after-life. Take the Houris. They have dark eyes, but what else? And they are ever virgins. There are two reasons why a male should want a virgin. The most common among male Muslims is that a virgin female would not recognize what a lousy lover he is. Among primitives, especially in a tightly-knit tribal community, he is pretty much assured that any offspring would be his. But in modern times, and especially in the U.S., the dummy just isn't reckoning with the TV repairman.

That Houris could be ever virgins is nonsense, anyway. Here's a guy who never expects the female to know what a klutz he is. Or maybe she's some kind of inflatable doll, in which case virginity would not be a consideration. Otherwise Allah would have to be able to perform hymen transplants. Even so, once a female has been sexually entered, she is a non-virgin for the rest of her life, hymen or no hymen. I think it would be a lot simpler if these tulips should just settle for the "blooming youths" I hope there is AIDS in Paradise.

A cute part on the first page is the reason people are unbelievers in Allah. "Their hearts and their ears hath God (Allah) sealed up and over their eyes is a covering. For them a severe chastisement".

So Allah is going to chastise those he prevented from believing in the first place. Stupid!

CNN tells us that International Islam is out to get us, they are an invincible network of cells of highly proficient terrorists all plotting our doom. So Allah has declared war on us. What we have to do is to declare war on Allah and root out Islam wherever we find it, here and worldwide. That might seem like a tall order, but not for us with all the help working and on the way.

World Islam has been dying for the past 200 years. As the world gets more modern, rulers of the Islamic nations realize that the sixth century socio-economic system so yearned after by their ignorant fundamentalists would destroy their own power structures. They have to modernize or become like today's Iran, since the ouster of their progressive Shah, a backward, over-populated economic ruin.

All over the Islamic world the more progressive nations are turning on their fanatics. They know that "terrorists" are more a danger to their own political and economic situations than to us. They also anticipate that as they weed out their militant mullahs they face revolt by their hoards of illiterate losers. This puts them between a rock and a hard place . But they chose power over progress and now they have a dangerous tightrope of their own making.

Of course, our own FBI and security services are tracking down illegal Muslims working out of American mosques and profiling in ways they would never admit to.

You may think that destroying Islam is too big a job and that one can't kill an idea. Not so. Ideas which no longer work because those using them are simply exploiting the ignorant, are taken out of the game. Three such ideas were killed in the last century. The idea that Hitler and National Socialism were sent by Providence was widely accepted in Germany. Children prayed to Hitler. Adults revered him as the actual Second Coming. After the Allies pounded Germany to rubble and de-nazified Germany, the German government outlawed National Socialism and the preaching of it is still outlawed today.

Japan's militant Shinto got millions of Japanese civilians slaughtered, the economy ruined and A-bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Hirohito was a living god. MacArthur and the Japanese government decided that the idea of Hirohito's godhood no longer worked and it was effectively outlawed, Within a few short years after the war both Germany and Japan rose out of the ashes and became two of the most powerful industrial economies.

And remember Communism? It was the terror of the 20th Century. But finally the European nations realized it didn't work and they would have to dump it or go under. The only countries that still claim to be communist are North Korea, Cuba, China and Viet Nam. None of their systems have any resemblance to Marxism/Leninism. They are communist in name only. Communism is dead. Islam is next.

Muslim leaders know all this but hope, with American aid, they can revamp their systems and modernize. Of course, the people of Germany and Japan had been intelligent and with a high level of culture and technology before the war. Muslims are underachievers due to their belief system and culture. So I give them about as much chance to rise as a bunch of baboons trying to rebuild the World Trade Center.

Now, how do you figure in all this. CNN has told us over and over that we are in a recession, which will be followed by depression and collapse. Our economy is so over-extended and corrupt that the average person will have to look out for himself and his loved ones by creating his own life-support system. The material in the survivors and our CDs will help you not only to become self-sufficient but will help your neighbors to pool their skills to provide power for your community. In this way, your community will flourish no matter what happens to the rest of our country

THE POWER OF MAN AND THE FAITH OF WOMAN

A 19th Century Expose Of Islam; A Warning From The Past

(From Godey's Lady's Book & Magazine 1872)

IN the year 571 of our era there was born in Arabia the self-styled Prophet of God, Mahomet, predicted, as we believe, by St. John, in the closing book of the Bible, who calls him "the false prophet." In this Divine history the rise and fall of the enemy of Christ is clearly portrayed.

In it's influence over the destinies of mankind, Mahomet must rank as the most wonderful of the men who have established a system of government founded on religion. That his natural endowments for the work were great will be seen by the following sketch from the best authenticated traditionists:—

"He was of middle height, rather thin, but broad of shoulders, wide of chest, strong of bone and muscle. His head was massive, strongly developed. Dark hair, slightly curled, flowed in a dense mass down almost to his shoulders. His face was oval-shaped, slightly tawny of color. Fine, long, arched eyebrows were divided by a vein which throbbed visibly in moments of passion, Great, restless, black eyes shone out from under long, heavy eyelashes.

A full beard framed his manly face. His skin was clear and soft, his complexion 'red and white,' his hands were as 'silk and satin'—even as those of a woman. His step was quick and elastic, yet firm. His whole gait and presence were dignified and imposing. His countenance was mild and pensive. His laugh was rarely more than a smile.

In his habits he was extremely simple, though he bestowed great care upon his person. Perfumes he loved passionately. Strong drinks he abhorred."

Such was Mahomet when, in his twenty-fourth year, he married his first wife, his only true wife, Chadija. Her character and its influence over him were, in the result, as noteworthy almost as his own, in their fitness to sustain his strength, and to guide him in his career. Together they showed the great results that may be wrought by the united efforts of the Power of Man and the Faith of Woman.

Chadija was older by fourteen years than her husband. She possessed a rare union of qualities—housewifely capacity and a capability of faith that made her doubly his helper. The cares of life were removed from him by her motherly hands; and when he returned from his desert wanderings, bearing with him his revelations, she was his first convert. Mahomet told her what he had seen. Whereupon she answered and said: "Rejoice, oh dear husband, and be of good faith! He, in whose hands stands Chadija's life, is my witness that thou wilt be the prophet of this people."

In 621 Chadija died, at the age of sixty-five years. The immediate result of her loss was to reduce him almost to beggary. His bitter grief was aggravated by persecution, and he almost despaired, when by a remarkable event, which we have not space to narrate, he became established at Medina. His history from that time forth is well known. He was recognized as a great prophet, saw his power daily increase, and died at last, at the age of sixty-one, surrounded by believing followers, and leaving to his successors the germ of a mighty empire.

The Eastern nations, when the Gospel was opened, and Christianity organized its first churches, had become deplorably fallen and wicked. Anarchy and unbelief held sway over the people. It seemed that the justice of God, in condemnation of the corrupted churches of Asia and Africa, had allowed the whirlwind of Islam to rage over the wretched apostates. Christ had been forsaken, crucified afresh, and put to open shame by His own pretended followers:

Therefore Antichrist founded his kingdom on the ruins of the Eastern churches. The extent of this Eastern Christianity is not generally borne in mind. It was "estimated at seven or ten times the size of the coeval Christianity of Europe, Roman, and Greek together." In Western Asia there were eighty-four bishoprics; in Palestine forty-seven. Armenia was wholly converted, and Persia so thronged with Christians, that when Sapor the Old began his first persecution, he put twenty-five bishops to death at once, one of whom is said to have had in his diocese two hundred and fifty priests. But this great body was wholly corrupt. The pure faith of Christ had been so changed and obscured by a multitude of foolish and profane rites introduced from the surrounding idolatries that none of the vital faith of their religion remained.

MAHOMETANISM ESTABLISHED

(A Warning From 129 Years Ago)

The Koran had been accepted by the followers of the dead prophet. In this, his sacred book, he sets aside reason, stifles conscience, represses inquiry, forbids private judgment: the only moral responsibility he acknowledges is that of implicit obedience to the laws of the Koran as the ultimate of truth, of knowledge, and of righteousness. (From the Koran: "And it is not for a believer, man or woman, to have any choice in their affairs, when God and His Apostle have decreed a matter: and whoever disobeyeth God and His Apostle, erreth with palpable error")

His creed was made for all men; those who refused to accept it were to be subdued or destroyed. His followers of every name—Persians, Moors, Arabs, Turks, representing the three Continents of Asia, Africa, and Europe—were united in rejecting the divinity of Christ, and hating Christianity. War was their great argument; their aim was the sovereignty of the earth. Nor was power the only reward offered to true believers. The harems of this world and the houries of heaven were to be theirs. It was not strange that they seized upon his promises, so flattering to the pride and the passions of men. They made of warfare for the faith the profession of their lives, the avenue to gain and glory. Like a consuming fire, driven by a furious wind, they burst over the Eastern churches, offering only the alternative of destruction or conversion. The sacred buildings of these degenerate sects were leveled to the ground, or transformed into mosques, where none but men might enter, worshippers of Allah and of Mahomet his prophet.

During a hundred years the Christians of Asia, Africa, and Southern Europe were beaten down by successive floods of invasion. Finally the Moslems, gathering all their powers, came as with the determined purpose to subdue all the kingdoms of Europe, and to blot out forever the name of Christendom from the islands of the Northern Ocean. Had the battle of Tours, fought in 732, been decided in favor of the False Prophet, Europe might now be under the heel of a Caliph, and the muezzin chanted from the towers of Paris and London; and our Pilgrim ancestors, if, indeed, they came, would have come to propagate the Koran among the savages of Massachusetts.

For the time, Islam was checked, never again to penetrate so far into Europe. But the East was sorely ravaged for centuries. Jerusalem was twice taken, and finally, in 1185, became the prey of the Saracens. Little is left of it but a heap of ruins. Constantinople fell in 1453. Both these cities have been retained by the victors. Their condition of Ignorance, misery, and decay is the strongest commentary on Mahometan rule.
